Playwrights' club

Help to write a play!

Readings and discussions of extracts from plays by four local writers who would welcome suggestions on how their work could be developed

Sun 17 September 7.00 pm
New Venture Theatre,
Bedford Place, Brighton

Sussex Playwrights' Club was founded in 1935 to promote an interest in theatre, especially the writing of new plays. Meetings are held monthly on a Sunday evening at the New Venture Theatre, in Bedford Place, Brighton. Plays by members are read and constructively criticised. Membership costs £8.00 per calendar year but "guests" are welcome at £1.00 per meeting. Anyone with an interest in the theatre is welcome.

English-Speaking Union

Marking the 25th anniversary of "Brideshead Revisted", the television adaptation of Evelyn Waugh's novel, the producer, Derek Granger, will speak on "Brideshead Revisted revisted".

The talk will be held in the fine traditional Reading Room, overlooking the garden, of The Hove Club and will be open to all.

Tues 19 September 2.00 pm
The Hove Club, 28 Fourth Avenue, Hove

A donation is requested.

The ESU fosters friendship and good will through the effective use of English as the language of international friendship and understanding. The local branch seeks to further these aims through a monthly programme of sociable excursions and friendly meetings with guest speakers covering a wide variety of topics. A principal activity is our annual public speaking competition for schools. Non-members are always welcome at these events.

We welcome new members. We are holding an Open Evening when non-members can join us for a typical rehearsal.

Then, if you would like to join the choir, we hold short simple auditions.

A previous "big picture"

Dupont Art Club was formed in 1981 and welcomes everyone from absolute beginners to professional artists. We are a club where you can have as much or as little help as you like. We often have a tutor, giving you the opportunity to improve your painting skills or be given help when you are starting out.

We meet at the Connaught Centre in Connaught Road, Hove, where our studio is large, bright and well equipped with easels, trestles and drawing boards.

There are three sessions each week: Wednesday afternoon, and Thursday morning and afternoon. We have sessions with still life, portrait and life classes. We hold special events, exhibitions, and during the summer months we organise visits to interesting places where you can paint outside.

We try to make everyone welcome, so you can try the club to see if you would like to join and we do not charge for your first session.
